Secretary Assumes He Has Right To Dispose Of Power Awhile

WAR DEPARTMENT ONLY CUSTODIAN

No Steps Taken Yet To Put Into Practice Coolidge Plan

(Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Oct. 20.—With the Muscle Shoals power plant due for completion next July Secretary Weeks indicated today in answer to inquiries that he would take steps to make temporary use of the power to be produced, if congress had not, by that time, acted on the various offers for acquisition of the plants now before it.

Mr. Weeks said he assumed he had authority to dispose of the power temporarily with the arrangement subject to cancellation in event congress accepted an offer for permanent operation of the plant.

There has been no recent development with relation to the Muscle Shoals situation in the war department, Mr. Weeks said. The whole matter of the disposition of the property is regarded by the war secretary as out of his hands since congress has taken it over.

The war department is merely custodian of the property and it is under this authority that Mr. Weeks would act if completion of the power plants made it advisable to put them into operation, selling the power to users to whom it would be available probably through existing power companies of the region.

No steps have been taken, so far as Mr. Weeks is aware, to present in any definite way the suggestion made by President Coolidge to congress that the task of negotiating with prospective bidders for the Muscle Shoals property, might be entrusted to some commission or other body.

The proposal contemplated, in Mr. Weeks opinion, that the commission would report back to congress for approval of any project it might work out.

EMPLOYMENT NOW BEFORE PRESIDENT

States To Co-operate With National Service Board

(Associated Press)
NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—The establishment of a free nationwide public employment service, to be maintained by the states in co-operation with the federal and local governments, for the benefit of men, women, and juniors in all walks of life, is recommended by the Russell Sage Foundation in a 600 page report on employment methods, needs, and agencies which was made public here today as the result of a five-year study which took the foundation's investigators into more than 70 cities of the United States and Canada.

The full report is being submitted to President Coolidge and to the governors of the states. The principal recommendations of the report are summarized as follows by Shelby M. Harrison, director of the department of surveys and exhibits of the Russell Sage Foundation, who was in charge of the studies on which the report is based:

That the federal government encourage and assist the states to maintain adequate systems of public employment offices and to co-ordinate these into an effective nationwide service.

That the states administer and support their own employment offices, subject to the terms of agreements with the federal government; and that the local governments participate in the management of the offices in their community through representation on their local employment committee.

That in order to establish the non-partisan character of the service, the functions to be performed by the federal government be administered by a board appointed by and directly responsible to the president.

That the board consist of the secretary of labor, the secretary of commerce and the secretary of agriculture.

That a national council and local employment committees representing employers, workers, and possible other allied interests be established as an additional aid in securing neutrality of administration as well as a reputation for such.

That the procedure of the service in respect to demands for workers by employers in whose establishment a strike or lockout is in progress or is pending, shall be such as to guarantee the neutrality of the service.

MIAMI SLOPS IN HEAVY RAINFALL

Business District Is Flooded As Walls Crumble

(Associated Press)
MIAMI, Fla., Oct. 20.—Miami today was taking stock of damage done after the heaviest rainfall in the history of the city, according to the weather bureau report. From Friday evening until Sunday night more than 10 inches was reported, while 11 inches were reported to have fallen in Allapattah, a suburb.

Cellars were flooded, orange groves were knee-deep and sea walls have crumbled in. Fire engines were used in the business district to pump out the overflow. Saturday night shoppers waded home in their stocking feet.

Several ships, among them being the Esther Weems, with freight and passengers for Baltimore are still held in port as another tropical disturbance is reported to be moving northward from the Key West section.

Streets in many parts of the city were impassable as high tides had prevented rain drainage. Restaurants and barber shop employees worked in their bare feet and at some points men charged ten cents each for carrying passengers on their backs.

Through Dada county dozens of automobiles were temporarily abandoned when the machines tilted over in unseen ditches of water.

Tremors Are Reported In South Atlantic Sections

FOLKS AROUSED OVER CAROLINA

Georgetown Fails To Record Any Sort Of A Shock

(Associated Press)

COLUMBIA, S. C., Oct. 20.—A slight earthquake shock was felt generally throughout the Piedmont region of South Carolina early today according to reports received in Columbia this morning.

Spartanburg, Greenville, Anderson and Greenwood each reported that the damage was sufficient to awaken sleeping persons and to rattle windows and crockery. No damage was done it was said.

A number of persons reported that they felt the shock in Columbia but the weather bureau office had no record of the shock.

SPARTANBURG, S. C., Oct. 20.—Thousands sleeping in Spartanburg and Greenville counties were awakened early this morning by an earthquake whose tremors were felt within a radius of 75 miles of Spartanburg between 3:34 and 3:36 o'clock this morning. The tremblings failed to cause any damage.

AUGUSTA, Ga., Oct. 20.—Slight tremors thought to be due to some earthquake disturbance were reported to the weather bureau about 3:30 this morning by residents of the hill section of the city. Telephone calls were numerous in newspaper offices regarding the quake.

Dr. James E. Lovejoy, government official, said the tremors caused his home to shake and set dogs in the neighborhood to barking.

ASHEVILLE, N. C., Oct. 20.—Distinct earth shocks were felt in Asheville and Hendersonville at 3:30 this morning and lasted one minute, and consisted of only very slight tremors. At Hendersonville the shocks were reported to be more violent. Window panes were shaken and mirrors were rattled. Kitchen utensils were knocked down. Weather bureau officials of this city have no record of the shocks. The earthquake is the first since the Charleston quake of 1886.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20.—The Georgetown seismograph which registers earthquake shocks failed to give any indication of the tremors reported in Georgia, North Carolina and South Carolina early today. Officials were inclined to believe that the disturbances were not of a seismic variety.

"GO-TO-CHURCH" CAMPAIGN PUSHED

Final Services Of the Campaign Set For Next Sunday

On next Sunday the final service of the "Go-to-Church" campaign of the Central Methodist congregation will be held at the church, with special programs for both the morning and evening services, stated Dr. James D. Hunter, the pastor, at the close of his powerful sermon last night on "The Prodigal Business Man."

Dr. Hunter mentioned only one business man, that one being the character in the Bible parable who had gotten rich and who had said to his soul "delight thyself, for I have much goods stored up for many years." The preacher said the man in question seemed to think a "soul" could feast on temporal blessings, and that he was not surprised that the scripture referred to the man as "Thou Fool."

It was announced that the "go-to-church" campaign would be pushed vigorously this week, with prayer meetings at a number of homes, and with a large effort by the personal worker's committee to secure unusually large attendances at the morning and evening services next Sunday.

B. A. Turner, chairman of the publicity committee of the church, stated that the following prayer meetings were to be held in Central Albany this week: Tuesday night prayer meeting at the residence of Mrs. J. H. Barnham, P. B. Hale, leader; Wednesday night prayer meeting and "Love Feast" at the church; Thursday night at the residence of D. L. Blackwell, H. L. Spencer leader; Friday night at the residence of C. H. Chunn, Judge L. P. Troup leader.

Dr. Hunter stated that one of his special sermons next Sunday would be on the "Prodigal Son," adding that the special solo number at the time of the delivery of that sermon would be: "Where Is My Wandering Boy Tonight." Last night's special song was: "How Sweet Is the Love of My Savior," by Mrs. H. H. Pulliam and Mrs. A. M. Richards, with Mrs. H. O. Troup as piano accompanist.

The "Three Minute Speaker" at the Sunday night's service was Morris Ford. Mr. Ford reminded his hearers that not a large enough percentage of the congregation had been present.

LOCAL TICKETS AS WELL AS NATIONAL TO GET PLURALITIES

Democratic Candidate Enthusiastic Over His Reception

INTEREST IS NOT LACKING IN STATE

Party Ranks United Candidates Find In Nashville

(Associated Press)

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 20.—Reports given John W. Davis, Democratic nominee for president, during the past 24 hours by Tennessee Democratic leaders here were summarized by Mr. Davis today in a statement declaring that the national and local tickets in this state would be given "an old-time plurality."

"All of the reports received by men in personal contact with the Tennessee Democratic leaders, including Representative Cordell Hull, and the other party representatives, indicates that this state is safely Democratic," Mr. Davis said.

"It will give an old-time plurality to the national and local tickets two weeks from tomorrow morning."

"There is a spirit of confidence in the ranks of the organization and there is a complete absence of apathy everywhere. The party is united and the vote will be gotten out on election day. Suggestions that interest is lacking are best refuted by the manner in which the party workers have gathered here from every section of the state."

DECISION HAILED AS VICTORY FOR LABOR

Court Decides Jury Trial Was Proper In the Contempt Cases

(Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20.—Railroad employees who were enjoined during the shopmen's strike of 1922, were entitled to jury trial when charged with contempt of court, it was held today by the supreme court.

That part of the Clayton act, which provided that employees may demand a trial by jury, was declared by the court to be constitutional and valid.

The relationship of an employer and employee does not cease, the court held, when a workman goes on a strike and the provisions of the Clayton act for protection of the employee, therefore, apply under such circumstances.

The question had been brought before the court by Sam Michaelson and others who had been employed by the Chicago, St. Paul and Omaha railroad company, and who claimed that under the Clayton act, they were entitled to a trial by jury.

CHICAGO, Oct. 20.—The decision of the supreme court today in the Michaelson case, involving the question of jury trial in contempt proceedings, was hailed by spokesmen for organized labor as a victory in their fight against what they termed "judicial excesses."

EIGHT OCCUPANTS OF A SMALL BOAT THROWN IN WATER

All Bodies Except One Are Recovered Says Report

FIRST AID REVIVES ONE OF CHILDREN

Negro Held in Jail Here While Officers Probe the Case Monday

Four negroes were reported drowned and four other narrowly escaped today afternoon late when a boat in which the eight negroes were crossing from the mainland to Finlay's island was "rocked" capitolating the occupants into the water, according to the story told by Riley Cheatham, one of the occupants of the boat, who was held in jail here today while officers investigated the affair.

Cheatham was said to have struck George King, another occupant of the boat; in the head, following an argument between the two.

Occupants of the boat were declared by Cheatham to have been himself, Minnie Cheatham, and baby, Annie Maud, George King, Claude Teague, Cheatham's wife and two children, Mary Helen and Riley Cheatham, Jr. Of the eight those drowned were Minnie Cheatham and baby, George King and Claude Teague. All of the bodies, except that of Teague, were said to have been recovered today.

Argument Started

Cheatham declared in jail here today that the fatal ride was started Sunday afternoon just before sundown. He declared that King brought the boat to the south side of the river, when Cheatham asked for a boat to take him and other passengers back to Finlay's island where he was employed.

He declared that when the boat arrived, it was overloaded. He said he asked King to permit him to "pull it," but the request was refused. The boat started toward the island and a leak was said to have been discovered. Cheatham charged that King had cursed him and he said that when he discovered the boat was leaking, he again requested to be allowed to "pull it" and again was denied the privilege. The two men exchanged profane salutations, he said, and he admitted that he struck King with a shotgun.

Within a moment the negroes were struggling in the water. Cheatham said he yelled to the others to hold on to the boat.

Cheatham declared he did not know how it happened that the members of his family was saved. He said it seemed that his baby simply floated on the surface of the water. He admitted that he could swim.

One of the children in the party was almost drowned, but first aid treatment revived the child.

The championship changes hands, a great eastern team bows to a southern machine, Vanderbilt, Sewanee, Mississippi University and Kentucky entered the list of hasbeens and dropped from the southern race. What will next Saturday bring forth with the conference leaders facing each other?

Georgia Tech brought glory to the old south by sending Penn State northward with hanging heads. Tennessee fought her way against the discolored Carson-Newman team and won 12-0, all honor to the Vols but Carson-Newman had several men held ineligible and five regulars out of the lineup. Auburn did as she was expected and defeated Howard 17-0. Washington and Lee crimped the Kentuckians pride by a three point margin, the final being 10-7. centage of the church membership was attending the church services. In his sermon Dr. Hunter contrasted soul hunger with bodily hunger.

He drew a heart breaking picture of what it meant for a body to waste away for want of proper nourishment, but declared that the thought of a starved human soul was ten thousand times more pathetic.

A final story of the preacher was concerning a returning Italian to his home country, who had put all his wealth into a great precious stone. The speaker said the man was skilled as a juggler and that to get the applause of his shipmates he would pitch his precious stone high in the air and then catch it, until finally the jewell fell into the ocean never to be recovered.

DREAMING IS A PERFECTION NOT AN AFFLICTION.

You have many times heard it said that dreaming is an affliction, that dreamers are always a type to be laughed and jibed at, a type that never goes further than just an idle dream.

This is true to a certain extent for action must accompany the views into the future of the man or woman that loves to while away the hours picturing the world as a better place to live in, those people who enjoy freeing themselves from themselves for a while and forgetting that they are a part of this vast mechanism that is upon the earth intent upon the soul absorbing chase of the dollar.

Dreamers are a part of the best part of the makeup of the population of the globe. Ministers are dreamers, outwardly if not inwardly. They go among their fellow men day after day and say beautiful things about their lives, encourage them, pull them away from the everlasting dollar chase, make them believe that they are better than they really are, free them from the criticisms of their fellow mortals. Ministers are possessed of the God given faculty of dreaming.

Woodrow Wilson was a dreamer, a dreamer with action, a dreamer that accomplished, a man that spent four long weary years in preparing his people for the future that was ahead. He saw the future of peace, the future of love of mankind and he suffered the criticism of politicians with pygmy minds, men who were unable to see into the beyond and believe that there was everlasting good in mankind men who saw life only in its reality and looking with suspicion upon every action of their fellowman.

Dreaming is God given, a powerful faculty that when combined with action leads only to one definite goal. The goal of satisfaction within yourself, the esteem of your fellow being, the correct path above the pitfalls of life, a path that leads ever onward from the sordid details of life in its reality.

LONG PERIOD OF PROSPERITY IS BEING PREDICTED

Good crops in this country and the settlement of many financial difficulties in Europe should mean continued and increased prosperity in America, so many writers on financial matters are saying. The New York National City Bank in an official statement says:

The greatest obstacle to the establishment of stable and prosperous conditions has been the unsettled state of Europe, for there is reason to believe that it has been largely responsible for the agricultural depression. And now we have the prospect that the improving conditions in agriculture will be supported by the recovery of industry in Europe, and the reviving industries of all countries, by increasing the purchasing power of all populations, will supply each other with markets. The highest degree of prosperity is to be had when all countries are prosperous together, and the conditions are now favorable for a general revival.

Since this country was able to maintain business for the years after the war, with no European markets of any consequence, it is certain with more markets opening throughout the world this country may be counted to get its part of the world trade.

It is claimed by reliable writers that the consumption of cotton goods now is greater than last year, and all kinds of manufactured products are expected to be in greater and greater demand.

Reports show that the sales of Sears-Roebuck for September show an increase of 11.19 per cent while those of Montgomery-Ward increased 26.12 per cent in the same length of time.

The increase of business among merchants according to Roger Babson is a consummation devoutly to be wished, that authority on business claiming that merchants are the backbone of business in this country.

FERRY SITUATION NOW BEFORE CITY COUNCIL.

The Albany city council is considering the removal of the Somerville pike ferry at this time following the suggestion of secretary Meininger on last Friday night before the councilmen along with several other recommendations offered by the chamber of commerce.

The ferry situation has long been a matter of public interest and consideration and it is believed that the statement of Mr. Meininger regarding the advantages to be obtained with the removal to the former landing at Bank street is a true story of the situation.

That business has been passing Albany-Decatur by on the Bee Line Highway is not a matter to be scoffed at. It should be worthy of long and earnest thought and consideration. Hundreds of automobiles with tourists from nearby states and from out of town travel the beaten path on the Chicago to Florida highway and when they get to the main road of the highway. They do not know that they are passing by our twin municipalities. Consequently there is a loss of business that could be gained if the tourists trade were brought through the heart of our cities.

Let it be hoped that the city fathers see the ferry removal problem as a means of greater revenue to the cities and agree to vacate the present site if they find it wise to do so.

"EASY MONEY."

Money this fall is "easy." Not particularly easy to make, but much easier to borrow than it has been for years. And this condition, which in some circumstances might be dangerous, is proving to be a blessing in many ways.

Usually the bankers who hold the purse strings and the responsible business leaders associated with them, fear such a situation, because it may lead to an orgy of inflation and speculation. Their fears for the present are allayed by the sensible course pursued by the public.

Borrowers are taking thrifty advantage of available money at low rates. General speaking, they are not seeking funds to speculate with or to squander for luxuries. They are exchanging old loans at high interest rates for new loans, easier to carry. They are borrowing money to buy land and build homes. They are borrowing to enlarge their plants and extend their business along legitimate lines. They are using the easy money to make their own position easier and to prepare, in a time of comparative dullness, for the assured prosperity which they know the future holds in store for their favored nation.

Gold, it happens, has started flowing back to Europe. So far it is a mere trickle. Yet some timid souls have started worrying a bit. High financial authorities say there is reason for satisfaction in that movement, rather than alarm. A little more gold abroad will improve conditions there, stimulate the foreign markets and thus pave the way for further American prosperity. The gold supply in this country is today at least a billion dollars beyond its needs. That vast surplus should be used; and what cannot be wisely used at home may well be abroad.—Tuscaloosa News.

WHERE KNOWLEDGE IS AT A DISCOUNT

The dispatches tell of an incident in a jury trial that resulted in withdrawing a case from a jury when it developed that one of the jurors had voluntarily gone to a house to ascertain the facts regarding a location which was in dispute. The court, could do nothing else under the rules, but the occurrence serves to illustrate our methods of adjudicating what the law books style "causes." We pay jurors modest sums to determine the facts in a case, and yet a man who finds out what are the facts upsets the whole proceeding.

If a crime should be committed in the presence of twelve reputable and intelligent men they would not be eligible to act for the courts in determining the facts. A jury of twelve men who knew nothing about the crime would be selected and an effort would be made to convince them of what the first twelve men already knew. The only purpose in having a jury is to make sure of the facts and in adjusting the law to them, and yet any one who knows the facts is in position to declare them, would not be permitted to serve.

Humorists have always indulged in much levity in talking about the American juror who is described as a man who must not only have an open mind but a vacant one in order to be acceptable to the attorneys who are arrayed in deadly opposition in the encounter. Of course, much that is said in jest is not warranted by the facts but there is enough truth behind the joke to point a moral. We must have rules and follow them in administering justice, but nothing appears more inconsistent and archaic than some of the rules of procedure that surround the simple bearing of the facts in an action at law.—Selma Times-Journal.

The First Methodist revival which has been in progress two weeks, led by Evangelist Thurston B. Price, of Asheville, N. C., came to a close last night before a large congregation, the ushers having difficulty in seating the eager worshippers.

It was announced by Dr. S. A. Steel, pastor of the First Methodist church, that about 15 new members had entered the church as one of the results of the revival. Another result named was the great encouragement and help the service of Dr. Price and his chorus leader, Evangelist Waltermire, had been to all who had attended the meetings. As an expression of their good will and affection for Dr. Price he was presented with a generous purse by officials of the church. The salary of Evangelist Waltermire and all expenses of the meeting were taken care of outside of the cash donation to Dr. Price.

The collections of the visiting preacher was taken in his absence. The Sunday morning donations for Dr. Price were received by Marvin West, chairman of the board of stewards of the church assisted by James H. Johnson and Foster H. Pointer. At the night service Dr. Steel read a note, signed by "The Albany-Decatur Knights of the Ku Klux Klan," expressing appreciation for the services of Dr. Price and the singer-evangelist, Waltermire, and inclosure of $25 for the visiting ministers.

At the Sunday night service Dr. Price, thanked all who had been of service in the meetings, expressed appreciation for the many courtesies extended him. He spoke especiallyAN OBJECT LESSON

Undoubtedly the local newspaper can hold and can save the business of the smaller towns.

So often you hear that the big cities are swallowing up the little towns and that the automobile and good roads are taking all the business to the big cities and that soon there'll be nothing but a depot, a grain elevator, a postoffice, one garage and a couple of small stores.

Get this: an enterprising chap by the name of Fred Anderson, founder of the Anderson department store over in Cozad, Nebraska, has proven that this is not necessarily true. Cozad is a town of 1,300 people, located near two larger towns. Anderson started in business there with a capital of $3,000—$2,000 of it borrowed. That was in 1906. He started in a little frame building. Last year he did a business of $300,000 and his store now contains 3,700 square feet of space.

The first ten years Anderson did practically no advertising, most of the time "no"—and just dragged along. One fine morning he began to advertise, he has been at it ever since and his business has grown steadily.

It is just as easy to follow the good roads in a car to a small town as a large one, provided the small town goes out after the business.

No small town will ever get any place by menacing the fact that all the business is going to the big towns and doing nothing to prevent it. And no country editor will help the situation any by printing editorials and news items encouraging such a belief of carrying out of town advertising.

of the service of the Albany-Decatur Daily during the revival. In his Sunday evening sermon the evangelist spoke on the "Mistakes of Lot and His Wife," picturing where those ancient Bible characters had failed to choose "the better part."

Announcements Monday Morning

A number of important announcements were made at the church Sunday morning. Mr. West stated that the board of stewards of the church would meet this evening. Dr. Steel announced that he would preach his two pre-conference sermons next Sunday. Sunday morning Dr. Steel will preach on the "Resurrection of Christ" and in the evening on "The Vision of Christ."

The final quarterly conference of the church was announced for Tuesday night.

Following the regular song service of the morning, Dr. Steel stepped to the pulpit-platform erected especially for him just in front of the regular pulpit stand, and announced that while he would take no

(Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Oct. 20.—William G. McAdoo, in his first extended statement since the Democratic national convention, declared Sunday that the only chance to "purify" the government and to accomplish the reforms demanded by the people is to elect Davis and Bryan.

In a letter written from Johns Hopkins hospital, Baltimore, where Mr. McAdoo recently underwent an operation, he informed Democratic national headquarters that he would be forced to abandon his plans for an extensive speech making campaign, but that through letters and telegrams to friends in various states he was doing his "utmost to help the cause."

"It is a great pity," the letter said, "that the progressives led by LaFollette and Wheeler and the Democrats led by Davis and Bryan, cannot present a united front against the common enemy."

GOVERNMENT HALTS TO WELCOME CONQUERORS

Never before in baseball history have the wheels of the Federal Government been halted to give official recognition to athletes. But that is what took place when "Bucky" Harris, "kid" manager, took his pennant-winning Senators back to Washington for their first World's Series. President Coolidge delivered the address of welcome and all the players received gifts. President Coolidge is shown presenting a silver loving cup to Harris, while Postmaster-General New, Secretary Hughes, Walter Johnson, President Isaac Gana, of the Washington Chamber of Commerce, and Commissioner Rudolf look on.

STRAITON-RIDDLE

In the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Riddle, of Hartselle, Ala., Saturday evening at 6 o'clock, the marriage of Miss Menese Riddle to Mr. John T. Straiton was solemnized in presence of immediate relatives and a few friends. Rev. R. W. Anderson officiated, using the impressive ring ceremony. The ceremony was performed in the living room before an improvised altar of ferns, ivy and yellow chrysanthemums, lighted by silver candelabra, holding yellow shaded lamps. Preceding the entrance of the bride party a musical program was rendered by Miss Elizabeth Meriwether, of Birmingham, Ala., who sang "The Heart of Her" and "All For You," accompanied by Mrs. C. I. Lee at the piano. Miss Meriwether was exceedingly pretty in her lovely dress of orchid crepe, and Mrs. Lee was charming in a blue satin back crepe, each wearing a corsage of pink roses.

Miss Eloise Riddle, sister of the bride, was maid of honor, and was lovely in her frock of sunburst taffeta, and carried an arm bouquet of yellow chrysanthemums. The bride was given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. J. H. Riddle. She was very attractive in an ensemble suit of brown with accessories to match. Her shower bouquet was of Bride's roses and val.

Miss Riddle has a rare combination of sweetness and charm, which makes it a source of regret that she leaves us. The groom was attended by Mr. Phil Orr, of Hartselle, as best man. Mr. Straiton is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Straiton, of Greensboro, Ala., and holds a responsible position with Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company.

The bridal party entered the living room to the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march, rendered by Mrs. C. I. Lee. "To a Wild Rose" was softly played during the ceremony.

A reception followed the ceremony, at which Miss Cleo Wiley, a picture of girlish beauty, in a dress of yellow taffeta, served punch. Immediately following the reception Mr. and Mrs. Straiton left for a short wedding journey, after which they will be at home in Birmingham, Ala.

HARTSELLE CULTURE CLUB
SECOND FALL MEETING

The second meeting for the Hartselle Culture Club for the new club year was held on last Wednesday the 15th at the home of Mrs. Fred O. Sherrill, she being a joint hostess with Mrs. C. I. Lee in the entertainment of the club members.

The thought throughout the meeting was "Woman's Work" and several able papers were presented by those present, bearing upon the important part woman has taken in the various activities.

Throughout the meeting instrumental music was contributed by Mrs. J. L. Houston to the delight of those present. The color scheme was yellow, and a delicious ice course was served after the program was finished. The club meetings are increasing in interest with each meeting, and throughout the winter it is expected the meetings will be held regularly.

NEXT SUNDAY TO BE LAST
SERMON OF REV. R. W. ANDERSON
BEFORE CONFERENCE.

With the coming of next Sunday, Rev. R. W. Anderson, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church, South will preach his last sermon before the convening of the annual conference. During the week there will be a rounding up of every department of the church, and it is expected that every claim will be well taken care of. The stewards of the church are to hold a meeting this week, probably Tuesday evening, at which time they will go over the finances of the church and this will be their last meeting prior to the convening of conference.

Rev. Anderson has been faithful and efficient in his field of labor and has the respect and confidence of all with whom he comes in contact with.

FARMERS EXPECTED
25c FOR COTTON

From many expressions heard from planters from every section of the county, 25c was expected by the man who raised it for the present cotton crop. When it went below this figure there was quite a bit of disappointment freely expressed. Since that time however, it has been found that the crop in this section, and practically all over the county is giving better returns than expected, there is a disposition to sell by a large majority of those having their cotton ginned. Many planters have been heard to remark, that I am making three bales more than I expected, and so on. It is well that cotton is turning out so well for the corn crop of the county, and the late plantings in every section, is very short, and much of it is not yet matured. Should a killing frost occur, great damage would be done to late corn.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gibson, of Hartselle R. F. D. 1 have moved to town and have taken rooms with Mrs. Lillie Britnell on Rock street. Mr. and Mrs. Gibson come to take advantage of the fine schools here for their children and Mr. Gibson has accepted a position as salesman in the general merchandise store of Mr. W. T. Stewart.

Three new residences have been started at the extreme end of East Main street, and they will be ready for occupancy in the next three weeks. It is here as it is in most all other places, there is not near enough houses to go around. There is always more demand for them than there is supply.

SATURDAY FINE
TRADE DAY

Last Saturday was one of the best trade days of the season. From early morning until late in the afternoon the streets were crowded with farm wagons and cars, coming to town to sell country produce and to buy the wares carried by the various merchants.

All the gins here were crowded from early till late, and carried over a large amount of overflow cotton from the days work.

Large quantities of country produce consisting of vegetables, such as tomatoes, green corn, okra, string beans, peppers, butter beans, all in prime condition were quite in evidence. This is evidence enough that Morgan county is well suited to raise practically everything, and right up to the first of November tender crisp vegetables can be grown here.

Large quantities of both sweet and Irish potatoes are being offered for sale, the former being brought in in wagon bed loads.

MISS RUTH WEST HAS RETURNED HOME
AFTER A STAY OF THREE WEEKS WITH HER
AUNT MRS. HAROLD PATTERSON IN NASHVILLE, TENN.

Morgan and Marshall high will play here next Friday afternoon. Both teams are about evenly matched, and as Morgan has met her most formidable teams, Blountsville and Cullman, she expects to have the score start the other way in her favor. The team is getting down to strict business, is becoming seasoned, and there is every expectation that the coming game will be in favor of M. C. H. S.

MORGAN TO PLAY
MARSHALL HIGH

Rev. G. C. Walker filled his regular appointment at the First Baptist church last Sunday morning and night. T. night the B. Y. P. U. held their regular Sunday evening service, just preceding the preaching hour.

The Epworth league held a most interesting meeting Sunday evening, with Miss Mary Paul Barclift as leader. The subject for discussion was: Why I am a Methodist. Several able talks were made by the young men and women members of the league, and they were enlightening.

Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Poole and children, and Mrs. A. Poole, mother of W. S., spent Sunday with relatives at Sheffield, returning home early Monday morning.

The wedding of Mrs. Jennie McMurray to Mr. John Henry Martin one day last week was quite a surprise to their many friends. Rev. W. T. Cobbs performed the ceremony, after which the couple left for Texas the home of the groom.

For many years Mr. Martin lived in this county, though moved to Texas several years ago and has since resided there. He was here on a visit coming several days ago. Mr. Martin is a splendid substantial man, and Mrs. McMurray well known to many in the county, is one of the best known and most beloved women in her section, living on her farm east of Falkville. It is understood that later Mr. and Mrs. Martin will make their home east of Falkville at the home of the bride.

BOTH SCHOOLS DOING FINE WORK

With a month and a half intervening since the beginning of the fall term at both the city and M. C. H. S., everything has gotten down to business, and it is said that splendid work is being accomplished at both. The M. C. H. S. is still crowded, despite the annex.

The many friends of Mrs. E. L. Hays are congratulating her on her re-election as president of the state P. T. A. Association, at a state meeting held at Gadsden recently. Mrs. Hays has been very active in the discharge of her duties of this important office and her many friends count it an honor worthily bestowed.

M. C. H. S. PLAYS CULLMAN HIGH

The M. C. H. S. football team went to Cullman Friday afternoon for a game with the Cullman team. Though outclassed in weight, and football experience, the small avoirdupois team from Hartselle played brilliant football, and succeeded in making one touchdown.

Their ability to hold the heavy team was very forcibly displayed when Cullman had worked the ball to within four yards of their goal line, and never were able to put it across in that particular instance.

Three costly fumbles on the part of Hartselle netted their opponents three touchdowns.

A forward pass received by Tomlinson, who played left end, was carried a distance of 50 yards for the lone touchdown Morgan made. This is the first time this season that Cullman has had her line crossed. The boys were defeated by a score of 36 to 6, but considering the circumstances, they are satisfied. Each member on the Morgan team played the game hard to the very end, and it was this determination which gave them the only score made.

Rheumatism

"Yes! it's all gone."

DO NOT close your eyes and think that health, free motion and strength are gone from you forever! It is not so. You can get rid of your rheumatism by building up your blood power. It is a fact that rheumatism means "blood poverty." It is a fact with the increase of red cells in your blood, impurities are destroyed. It is a fact that S.S.S. will help Nature build these red-blood-cells. S.S.S. is one of the most powerful blood cleansers in existence. Its results in thousands of rheumatic cases have been nothing short of amazing! The medicinal ingredients of S.S.S. are purely vegetable. This is very important to remember! What can be more inspiring, more wonderful than to see the shackles of pain released from your struggling body, swellings, linkers, pains, stiffness of joints and muscles all disappear; your stomach made strong; your face pink with the old sweetheart glow, your blood enriched and your cheeks more plump as they used to be. You can do it! Take S.S.S., the great destroyer of rheumatic impurities.

S.S.S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

When Sak-el-Bahr learned the value of the capture, when he was informed that in addition to a hundred able-bodied men under the hatches, to be sold as slaves in the Sok-el-Abeed, there was a cargo of gold and silver, pearls, amber, spices and ivory and such lesser matters as gorgeous silken fabrics, rich beyond anything that had ever been seen upon the seas at any one time, he felt that the blood he had shed had not been wasted.

Let him sail safely into Algiers with these two ships, both captured in the name of Allah and his Prophet, one of them an argosy so richly freighted, a floating treasure house, and he need have little fear of what his enemies and the crafty, evil Sicilian woman might have wrought against him in his absence.

Then he made inquiry touching his two English captives, to be informed that Othman had taken charge of them and that he had continued the treatment meted out to them by Sak-el-Bahr himself when first they were brought aboard.

He was satisfied and fell into a gentle healing sleep, whilst on the decks above his followers rendered thanks to Allah the Pitying the Pityful, the Master of the Day of Judgment, who Alone is All-Wise, All-Knowing.

CHAPTER XIII

THE LION OF THE FAITH
Asad-ed-Din, the Lion of the Faith, Basha of Algiers, walked in the evening cool in the orchard of the Kasbah upon the heights above the city, and at his side, stepping daintly, came Fenzileh, his wife, the first lady of his harem, whom eighteen years ago he had carried off from a little whitewashed village above the Straits of Messina which his followers had raided.

She had been a lissom maid of eighteen in those far-off days, the child of humble peasant folk, and she had gone uncomplaining to the arms of her swarthy ravisher. Today, at thirty-six, she was still beautiful, more beautiful indeed than when first she had fired the passion of Asad-Reis, as he then was, one of the captains of the famous All-Basha. There were streaks of red in her heavy black tresses, her skin was of a soft pearliness that seemed translucent, her eyes were large, of a golden brown, astream with somber fire, her lips were full and sinuous. She was tall and of a shape that in Europe would have been accounted perfect, which is to say that she was a thought too slender for Oriental taste; she moved along beside her lord with a sinuous, languorous grace, gently stirring her fan of ostrich plumes. She was unveiled. Indeed, it was her immodest habit to go naked of face more often than to wear a veil, which is but the least of the many undesirable infidel ways which had survived her induction into the Faith of Islam—a necessary step before Asad, who was devout to the point of bigotry, would consent to make her his wife.

He had found her such a wife as it is certain he could never have procured at home; a woman who not content to be his toy, the plaything of his idle hours, insinuated herself into affairs, demanded and obtained his confidences and exerted over him much the same influence as the wife of a European prince might exert over her consort. In the years during which he had lain under the spell of her ripening beauty he had accepted the situation willingly enough; later, when he would have curtailed her interferences, it was too late; she had taken a firm grip of the reins, and Asad was in no better case than many a European husband—an anomalous and outrageous condition this for a Basha of the Prophet's House.

It was also a dangerous one for Fenzileh, for should the burden of her at any time become too heavy for her lord there was a short and easy way by which he could be rid of it.

Dauntless was she now as she paced there in the cool of the orchard under the pink and white petals of the apricots, the flaming scarlet of pomegranate blossoms and through orange groves where the golden fruit glowed amid foliage of somber green. She was at her eternal work of poisoning the mind of her lord against Sak-el-Bahr, and in her maternal jealousy she braved the dangers of such an undertaking, fully aware of how dear to the heart of Asad-ed-Dip was that absent renegade corsair. It was this very affection of the Basha's for his lieutenant that was the fons fons of his own affection that transcended Asad's love for his own son and hers, and it led to the common rumor that for Sak-el-Bahr was reserved the high destiny of succeeding Asad in the Bashaik.

"I tell thee thou'rt abused by him, O source of my life," "I hear thee," answered Asad sourly. "And were thine own hearing less infirm, woman, thou wouldst have heard me answer thee that thy words weigh for naught with me against his deeds. Words may be but a mask upon our thoughts; deeds are ever the expression of them. Bear thou that in mind, O Fenzileh."

"Do I not bear in mind thine every word, O fount of wisdom?" she protested, and left him, as she often did, in doubt whether she fawned or sneered. "And it is his deeds I would have speak for him, not indeed my poor words and still less his own."

"Then, by the head of Allah, let those same deeds speak, and be thou silent." The harsh tone of his reproof and the face, gave her pause for a moment. He turned about. "Come!" he said. "Soon it will be the hour of prayer." And he paced back toward the yellow huddle of walls of the Kasbah that overtopped the green of that fragrant place.

He was a tall, gaunt man, stooping slightly at the shoulders under the burden of his years; but his eagle face was masterful, and some lingering embers of his youth still glowed in his dark eyes. Thoughtfully, with a jewelled hand, he stroked his long white beard; with the other he leaned upon her soft, plump arm, more from habit than for support, for he was full vigorous still.

High in the blue overhead a lark burst suddenly into song, and from the depths of the orchard came a gentle murmur of doves as if returning thanks for the lessening of the great heat now that the sun was sinking rapidly toward the world's edge and the shadows were lengthening.

Came Fenzileh's voice again, more musical than either, yet laden with words of evil, poison wrapped in honey. "O my dear lord, thou'rt angered with me now. Woe me! That never may I counsel thee for thine own glory as my heart prompts me, but I must earn thy coldness."

"Abuse not him I love," said the Basha shortly. "I have told thee so full oft already."

She nestled closer to him, and her voice grew softer, more akin to the amorous cooing of the doves. "And do I not love thee, O master of my soul? Is there in all the world a heart more faithful to thee than mine? Is not thy life my life? Have not my days been all devoted to the perfecting of thine happiness? And wilt thou then frown upon me if I fear for thee at the hands of an intruder of yesterday?"

"Fear for me?" he echoed, and laughed jeeringly. "What shouldst thou fear for me from Sak-el-Bahr?" "What all Believers must ever fear from one who is no true Moslem, from one who makes a mock and travesty of the True Faith that he may gain advancement."

The Basha checked in his stride, and turned upon her angrily. "May thy tongue rot, thou mother of lies!"

"I am as the dust beneath thy feet, O my sweet lord, yet am I not what thine heedless anger calls me."

"Heedless?" quoth he. "Not heedless but righteous to hear one whom the Prophet guards, who is the very Javellin of Islam against the breast of the unbeliever, who carries the scourge of Allah against the infidel Frankish pigs, so maligned by thee! No more, I say! Lest I bid thee make good thy words, and pay the liar's price if thou shouldst fall."

"And should I fear the test?" she countered, nothing daunted. "I tell thee, O father of Marzak, that I should hail it gladly. Why, hear me now. Thou settest store by deeds, not words. Tell me, then, is it the deed of a True-Believer to waste substance upon infidel slaves, to purchase them that he may set them free?"

TEACHER FOUND DEAD
(Associated Press)
CONKLIN, Mich., Oct. 18.—Early today police who last night guarded the vicinity took up the search for Egbert Dyke, wanted in connection with the fatal attack of Miss Oily Fleming, 23-year-old school teacher. Miss Fleming a teacher at the Bibb Springs school, one mile south of Conklin, was found by pupils in a shed in the rear of the school shortly after the children had been dismissed.

AMUSEMENTS

Every man and woman and every boy and girl, over sixteen years of age, must see "Meet the Wife," the new comedy by Lynn Starling, which comes to this city on Thursday, October 23, for one night only at the Masonic Theatre, directly from a six months' run at the Klaw Theatre, New York. It is a theatrical gem without a flaw. Mr. Starling's name is not as well known to the theatre-going public as it is going to be in a very short time.

"Meet the Wife" is something more than a comedy. The author and Jules Hurlig, the producer, have been too modest in classifying it. The play not only contains everything that is best in American comedy, but it also sparkles with the pep and dash of the cleverest French farces, with all of the ilth and suggestiveness left out.

The plot of the play is ingenious, but to tell it in cold type would be to spoil the pleasure of those who go to see it. However, there are any number of surprises and unusual situations, and there is scarcely a moment from the first to the last curtain that the humor beyond the foot-lights is not sending the audience into screams of laughter. Every part will be played by a finished artist, and the most captious will not find fault with a single delineation. Of all the stellar roles that Mabel Brownell has played, during her several years of a featured player in Metropolitan productions, and she has played them all splendidly, that of Gertrude Lennox in "Meet the Wife" is not only the "fattest" and best comedy part handed an actress by an American writer, but it fits her talents like the proverbial glove and will live in the memories of those who see her in it, long after she has retired from the stage. As played by Miss Brownell the role is a classic. Every member of this brilliant cast has a wonderful part of peculiar, pleasing easy style that wins round after round of applause after each departure from the stage. The Harvey Lennox of the play as the husband of the flighty, irrepressible and assertive Gertrude, is a glorious scream of laughter at all times and working shoulder to shoulder with him in the fun making is Victor Stanton, as the sappiest sap who ever loved and lost a maid. If you miss "Meet the Wife" you will regret it as long as you live, for it is the brightest, wittiest and cleanest comedy on the stage today, the best sent here in many seasons, and all your friends and everybody else's friends are going to talk about it a lot.

There is now being shown at the Princess Theatre, a picture of so unusual a plot and so excellent a treatment, that it is hard to reduce it to the ordinary critical formulas. That production is "Poisoned Paradise," the latest release by Preferred Pictures Corporation. In respect to story, direction, settings and acting we do not hesitate to place this new B. P. Schulberg production among the choicest offerings of the current season. The basis for this splendid photoplay is Robert W. Service's novel, "Poisoned Paradise" and we venture to say that in all the masterpieces of writing which this widely read author has given us, none has approached this thrilling tale of Monte Carlo in exciting incidents or finely drawn character portrayals.
